

Ronda Collum

Senior Director, Operations

Ronda Collum is a Senior Director in Operations. In this role, Ms. Collum leads and supervises teams conducting data capture, document analyses, and quality assurance reviews. She has assisted companies and their professionals through all phases of bankruptcy case administrations, and has led and assisted with several bankruptcy platform initiatives, including on-line data retrieval and reporting capability enhancements. The majority of Ms. Collum's time at GCG since 2010 has been spent on major mass tort matters, for which she has led teams conducting claim reviews, interpreting and assessing support documentation, handling escalated and complicated claim questions, coordinating crisis management situations, performing quality assurance reviews, and conducting data and reporting audits.

Prior to joining GCG, Ms. Collum was a vice president of Wells Fargo Trumbull, a former claims management firm. She also spent over 20 years as a financial consultant and forensic accountant, primarily with international accounting firms, including KPMG, Arthur Andersen and Spicer and Oppenheim. She has specialized in litigation support and corporate restructuring services her entire career, working on large matters involving Fortune 500 companies and leading complex engagements and projects involving loss profits disputes, shareholder disputes, asset tracings, Ponzi scheme investigations, mass tort claims, preference analyses, fraudulent transfer analyses, bankruptcy reporting compliance, claims analysis and objections, data management and voting solicitation and tabulation. At Wells, Fargo Trumbull, Ms. Collum led claims management engagements, and was also responsible for liquidation and wind down activities associated with the closure of that business.
